As you probably know, May is Mental Health Awareness Month, and we hope that this event will help to shine a light on this difficult subject. The past three years have taken their toll on mental health in our community, but together we can find new and bright ways of addressing the issue.

Tonight is an opportunity to help us keep shining on for those in our community who need our care. You will see many options around the venue to support direct services. Please help us continue to help others and give a gift that is meaningful to you.

Thank you so much for your attendance at our soiree.

Your support is radiant!
Sincerely,
Sarah & Jim

Shocking Rise in Suicidal Youth

In 2022 TYFS had two children as young as 9 seek our help for suicidal ideation.

In November 2022,
ALL 17 youth in residential care presenting with primary concerns of self-harm, suicidal ideation, depression and anxiety.

From 2017 to 2021, the organization saw a 185% increase in demand for safe nights for actively suicidal youth.

In 2022 over 800 children and family members passed through TYFS doors and returned to their families and schools as better students, family members, and citizens in their communities!

Jacob

Jacob came to TYFS without much luck on his side. He and his mother were homeless, and Jacob had witnessed his father's incarceration, his mother's battle with substances, and his own struggle with depression and anxiety. He arrived at our Crisis Shelter scared, defensive, and seeking critical help.

During his time with TYFS, Jacob developed relationships with our staff, and every day he had food and a warm place to sleep. Jacob's mother found stable housing, worked on her addiction issues, and gained a respectable paying job. Through family therapy, Jacob and his mother developed a new relationship based on love and trust.

Since his time with TYFS, Jacob has faced many ups and downs; from losing his mom to cancer to becoming an electrician and starting his own family. But over those 9 years, Jacob always felt connected to TYFS, calling every couple of months to check in, "because I knew that no matter what you guys would be there and care about me even if I was screwing up."

Emma

When Emma was very young she lived in a small house with 12 other people. There were stories of drug use and dealing, violence, and arrests. Her father was incarcerated when she was 2 and her mother abandoned her when she was 8. Emma went to live with her Aunt who had 4 children of her own, each under the age of 6, and Emma was expected to watch the little ones and attend to many of the family's needs. Emma's story continues with more hard times than good. At 16, Emma began falling apart. Luckily, she was noticed by a school counselor who helped her leave her disheveled home and move into the Crisis Shelter.

Emma stayed there for just under a year, during which time she worked to address the many of her life traumas. She also became the most empathetic youth living at the Home, comforting others who were struggling and lending a non-judgmental ear to new residents. At 17, Emma became emancipated, and worked with the TYFS staff to create a safe living situation and to connect with community resources to support her on her new life path.

Today Emma is enrolled in Central Wyoming College to pursue a career in care through the nursing program. Says Emma, "I used to wake up in the morning and be afraid of what was to come; I wake up now, and I am excited for what is next."

CREATIVE CURIOSITY

Join our Partnership for a Purpose

A thriving community relies on a vibrant workforce including healthy families and healthy youth. For more than 45 years, Teton Youth & Family Services has provided programming and support for our most vulnerable community members. Over the past two years, the need has nearly doubled from case management and therapeutic support for young children and families navigating trauma to residential and wilderness-based therapeutic opportunities for teenagers facing tough challenges. We believe every community member deserves a chance to thrive and be healthy.

In partnership with you we can work together to help our community members find healthy paths toward a successful future.
